Charles Hill Alleged to Be Wanted Here for the Crime.

Charles Hill, colored, is under arrest at New Albany awaiting instructions from the Indianapolis police department. Hill was arrested at New Albany last night while in attendance at a colored picnic. The New Albany officials say that he is suspected of having killed William Duggins, in this city, three years ago. The Indianapolis police say they never heard of William Dug-gins or of a murder in which Hill was implicated. Detective Thornton thinks that Hill is wanted for burglary.

A year ago a guest of the Grand Hotel was robbed in his room and two colored porters were accused of the robbery. Hill was one of the porters and left the city before he could be captured. A telegram from New Albany last night said that Hill admitted that he accidentally shot Duggins, but declared that the wound was not fatal. The affair was never heard of Haughville Commercial Club to Indianapolis Fire Department.

At the regular meeting of the Haughville Commercial Club last night it was decided that the services rendered by the Indianspolls fire department at the clevator fire last week were invaluable and most timely. As a token of the appreciation of the citizens of the suburb the Commercial Club will give a festival at the mineral springs within the next two months, the proceeds to be turned over to the firemen's relief fund. The following committee on arrangements was appointed: John Craig, Dr. Thomas, Joseph Flack, Brice Martin and W. P. Canfield.

New City Ambulance Completed. J. M. Bohmie, the carriage manufacturer, has completed the new city ambulance, for which the contract has been let for more than a year. WORLD'S RECORD TIED

SPRINTER MARTIN HOGAN RUNS 100 YARDS IN 94-5 SECONDS.

Unexpected Outcome of the Hogan-Buschmann Foot Race at the Ball Park Yesterday.

Of the 3,000 people who assembled at the East Ohio-street baseball park yesterday afternoon, it is safe to say a majority were there to see the much talked of sprinting match between Martin F. Hogan, the fleetfooted center fielder of the Indianapolis club, and Harry C. Buschmann, of this city, rather than the game of ball between the Indianapolis and Milwaukee teams. They saw the world's record for a 100-yard 60 dash equaled by Hogan, who won as he pleased, to the great delight of his many admirers, and to the surprise of all, for none had expected to see a notch knocked off the ten-second mark. The course was marked off across the ball field from east to west, the starting point being almost opposite the north end of the clubhouse and the finish a few feet inside the diamond behind third base. The course had been laid off the day before and properly verified both yesterday morning and afternoon by the friends of the contestants. The judges were Wm. H. Schmidt, county treasurer-elect; W. H. Watkins, manager of the Indianapolis ball club, and Hector Fuller, of the News. the latter acting as starting judge and the two first named officiating at the finish. The time was kept by Harry S. New, of the Journal, and Carl Walk, of Julius C. Walk & Son. When the two men appeared upon the field in the regulation costume of a sprinter, it was evident that Hogan had the best of his adversary in the matter of weight, he being much lighter and more trimly built than Buschmann, who looked more like a wrestler with his massive shoulders and immense thighs, than like a runner. Hogan, on the other hand, was light and sinewy, carrying not an ounce of surplus flesh, and evidently in the very pink of condition. The difference in build and weight of the two men was so plainly apparent as to convince even the most casual observer that the chances were all in favor of the lighter man.

At 3:38 o'clock the men were brought to the scratch and made to toe the mark the scratch and made to toe the mark preparatory for the signal to go, which was to be a snot from a pistol fired by Mr. Fuller. Buschmann, having won the toss, chose the south side of the course, while Hogan took the north of the line. Buschmann seemed a trifle nervous and overanxious and in his anxiety made a false start, for which, under the strict rules governing a race, he should have been set back one yard. His friends protested, however, and starting judge Fuller refused to impose the penalty. At the crack of the pistol Hogan fairly leaped through the air and in the first bound secured a lead over the overweighted and somewhat lead over the overweighted and somewhat "logy" Buschmann which the latter was never able to reduce, although he ran gamely over the first sixty yards of the course, after which he apparently realized the hopelessness of his case and veered to one side, lessness of his case and veered to one side, abandoning the race within a few yards of the finish. After the flying start Hogan seemed to come down the line on wings, so swift was his pace, so even his running and so imperceptible the movement of his body accompanying the pattering feet. He neither looked to right nor left, but sped along the course as if his very life depended upon the success of his efforts, and dashed across the tape line held by judges Schmidt and Watkins at the finish, just 9 4-5 seconds from the instant when the discharge of Fuller's pistol set his feet in motion.

Hogan's victory was wildy cheered by the audience which filled the grand stand and bleachers, and was received with every bleachers, and was received with every manifestation of delight by the members of the Indianapolis and Milwaukee teams, who occupied positions in the field to the north of the course. The cheers would have been louder and the applause even more vociferous had the spectators realized that the rapid centerfielder had tied the world's record for a one-hundred-yard dash. Until yesterday but six men in the history of athletics had accomplished the feat of covering one hundred yards in 9 4-5 seconds, these six, with the place and date of their performance being as follows: H. M. Johnson, Cleveland, O., July 31, 1886; Harry Bethune, Oakland, Cal., Feb. 22, 1888; John Owen, jr., Washington, D. C., Oct. 11, 1890; W. T. MacPherson, Auckland, New Zealand, Feb. 6, 1891; J. H. Hampton, Canterbury, England, Feb. 6, 1892; C. W. Stage, Cleveland, O., Sept. 2, 1893.

Martin F. Hogan was born in Wensbury, England, twenty-four years ago, and was Martin F. Hogan was born in Wensbury, England, twenty-four years ago, and was brought to this country by his parents while yet a child, and for years his home was in Youngstown, O. He has played ball since the season of 1893, beginning with the team at Akron, O., and having since played with Scranton, Pa., the Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Browns. There is a prevalent suspicion among some of Hogan's more intimate friends that he has participated in a number of matches similar to that of vesterday.

Buschmann is a magnificent physical specimen, being built like a Hercules. He is a graduate of Purdue University, a member of the football eleven of that college, and is said to have had a record of one hundred yards in ten seconds flat. If this be true, he must have been out of condition yesterday, for Hogan ran away from him as though he had been tied.

"A dispatch in yesterday's papers," said an Indianapolis man who formerly lived in Mississippi, "tells of a reckless duel in Kentucky, where two men met by agreement, measured off their distance, and without witnesses began firing. The victim, as he was dying, admitted that no advantage was taken by his opponent, both men firing at the same time. The dispatch also adds that the like of the fight has its parallel only in the history of the famous McLauren-Skelton duel, in Rolling Ford, Miss. The dispatch has this duel story as it was told me. I know McLaurin, one of the principals, who is a brother of the United States Senator from that State. He is one of seven brothers, all well built strapping fellows, courageous as lions, courteous as Chesterfields and men of honor, built on the pattern of the old-time Southern chivalry and punctiliousness. I honor, built on the pattern of the old-time Southern chivalry and punctiliousness. I never knew one of them to offer an insult, yet they were as quick as darts to resent one. Skelton was a chancery clerk at Rolling Fork, and the McLaurin of whom I speak is a lawyer. It seems that McLaurin was called at the clerk's office on some business, and was allowed to await an unusually long time without attention. He mildly reproached Skelton, who sharply replied, using language which McLaurin considered insulting. The lawyer denounced the clerk for using such language, and an outgrowth of this interview was the passing of a challenge from view was the passing of a challenge from Skelton to McLauren. The lawyer had been ill, and, in reply, he told Skelton that a meeting could be arranged as soon as he recovered from his indisposition, within several days at the furthest. McLaurin significantly added that he wanted her bath band affair. So it was agreed that both men should meet across the river in Louis-iana, almost opposite Vicksburg. One morn-ing two boats left the landing on the Misissippi side, McLaurin in one and Skelton in the other, each with a negro boatman. The boatmen were ordered to remain at the water's edge, while the two men, with double-barreled shotguns over their shoul-ders, marched side by side into a willow copse. Within fifteen minutes there came copse. Within fifteen minutes there came the sound of two reports almost simultaneous, and presently McLaurin came back to his boat. He was rowed back to Mississippi, where he notified Skelton's friends where the chancery clerk's body might be found. No one ever questioned the fairness of the meeting or the exchange of shots, for McLaurin's honor was held above reproach."

A great many visitors are attracted to the soldiers' and sailors' monument since the cascades have been attached and the employes of the place are kept pretty busy answering questions. Many of the queries put to the custodians are of the most absurd character. Yesterday afternoon a party of out-of-town people ascended the steps of the shaft, and after looking curiously about the lobby, decided to take a ride to the top. The visiting party consisted of a man and three women. After supplying themselves with the tickets the women stepped on to the elevator. The man hesitated and held back until the employe in charge of the elevator grew im-

FORGER LEWIS HYPOTHECATED IN-DIANAPOLIS SECURITIES.

Attorney Lewis Comes to This City to Investigate-Looking After Other Indiana Bonds.

Jesse M. Lewis, of Urbana, O., was the suggestive signature registered at the Bates House lest night. Another Lewis of Urbana, O., had recently set the investment world awhirl by revelations of forgeries equaling anything in the criminal records of the country for many years. Mr. Lewis, the lawyer, came here to investigate the genuineness of bonds which Mr. Lewis, the forger, had hypothecated to clients of the first named Lewis. He found that so far as the Indianapolis bonds are concerned they are genuine, and the signatures of Thomas L. Sullivan, Mayor at the time they were issued, and William Wesley Woollen, controller, were recognized by these gentlemen as genuine. It is due Mr. Lewis, lawyer, to say that he is in no way related to Lewis, the forger. The attorney is none other than Jesse M. Lewis, who was the Democratic candidate in Ohio for Attorney-general in the year when Governor Campbell defeated Governor Foraker, but was not himself elected. He says he has been much annoyed as he traveled in his search for the proofs of forgeries by the resemblance of his name to that of Z. T. Lewis, the forger. He arrived late one night last week in To'edo on his way to St. Claire, Mich., to talk with Mrs. Lewis, and before he could wash up his presence caused a sensation. Afterward he refused to register on his arrival at a hotel, and would not have registered last night except that he was expecting telegrams which required him to leave his William Wesley Woollen met him by request by wire at the hotel. Together they went to the office of ex-Mayor Sullivan, with whom the bonds were inspected. They were improvement bonds of the city of Indianapolis, bearing the signatures of Woollen and Sullivan.

These were inspected sharply and for quite a time. Both gentlemen reached said to have had a record of one hundred yards in ten seconds flat. If this be true, he must have been out of condition yesterday, for Hogan ran away from him as though he had been tied.

A Challenge to Hogan.

DISCLOSURES SHOW A $4,000 MONTH-LY DEFICIT AT PRISON SOUTH.

Prison Supposed to Pay Expenses-Arthur Mayer, of New Albany, to Be Deputy Warden.

Warden Hert and W. S. Carpenter, the latter a director of the Prison South, arrived, last night, from Cincinnati and registered at the Denison. They visited Cincinnati with a view to inducing the Broomwell Brush and Wire Goods Company to become a bidder again for convict labor in the prison. This company used to have a contract for 150 prisoners, but when the contract expired last winer, declined to renew its bid, having received a very favorable offer from the directors of the Cincinnati workhouse to use the labor there. Warden Hert said, last night, he was hopeful that the company would seek to renew relations with the prison. Out of 839 convicts now in the prison, only about three hundred are employed. This means both a large deficit in the prison revenues and also complicates in many ways the problems of prison management and discipline. "The truth is," said the Warden, last night, to a Journal reporter, "the prison was turned over to me with revenues far short of the expenditures. The Democrats have been boasting about the prison being self-sustaining, but when it was turned over to the new directors and to me, it was running $4,000 a month short of expenses. I have instructed the clerks to make a careful estimate and will know how things stand by the first of the month."

There is so much cheap free labor that the contractors who formerly used convict labor say they do not find the same profit in using the labor of prisons. The industrial depression generally since the new tariff went into effect, has, they say, been felt very heavily by users of prison labor. It is recalled that it was the panic that caused the willow-ware manufacturers at the pris on to pile up stock for which there was no sale, and thus to become so heavily indebted to the State. The contract required the convicts to be used whether the output could be marketed or not, and this experi-ence, added to the adverse influences, depreciating the value of prison labor.

The prison directors will meet to-day.

John F. Nugent arrived yesterday morning from Evansville, and James R. Henry, of Gosport, is connected with the State Bank here. Mr. Carpenter is the third director.

The directors will to-day elect a deputy warden, a chaplain, a steward and a physician. It is certain that the deputy warden will be Arthur Mayer, of New Albany. He is a prominent business man there and is challenged by the Benythlian country compared to the Benythlian country co ville, and Dr. Reynolds, of Memphis, Dr. Severinghaus is a son-in-law of Senator Schneck, of Seymour, and his backers say he has been strongly recommended. The Senator arrived last night to push Doctor Severinghaus's claims. Other candidates have strong recommendations with influential members of the Senate and local politicians pushing them forward. Senator Watson is working for his friend, Dr. Sharp, of Charlestown. There are said to be about forty candidates for the position of chaplain, and about as many more for that of steward. The leading candidates for chaplain are Elder Jones, of Seymour, of the Christian Church; Rev. Mr. Van Allen, of Vermillion county, United Brethren, and Rev. Mr. Woods, of Washington county, Methodist. There have been no Republicans in the employ of the State at the publicans in the employ of the State at the prison for twenty years, and as soon as the good of the service permits, it is understood that Republicans are to take the places of the present employes.

LINE TO GREENWOOD

TOLEDO CONSTRUCTION COMPANY WILL BEGIN WORK NEXT WEEK.

Electric Road Will Probably Be in Operation in Two Months-Examining the Franchise.

The Indianapolis, Franklin & Greenwood electric railway enterprise has assume proportions within the last few days that indicate something substantial. Representatives of the Toledo Construction Company are on the ground prepared to begin work on the road at once, and it is probable that within the next ten days the grade will be started. The Toledo Construction Company is represented by W. S. and C. E. Coon John Kumler, attorney for the company, is also here looking up the franchise and right of way. If it is found that the promoters of the scheme have a good franchise and the company is legally incorporated the equipped with all the modern appliances. Bonds will be issued by the contractors. W. S. and C. E. Coon, with their attorney, had a conference last night with Grafton Johnson, president of the Indianapolis Franklin & Greenwood company, and Henry L. Smith, one of the chief promoters of the enterprise. The contractors have not yet been over the right-of-way, but will drive Fishing, through to Franklin to-day and view the territory through which the line will pass.

The road will be about twenty miles in length, extending from this city to Franklin, Johnson county, and passing through the town of Greenwood. It was the desire of the company to construct a double track, but the Marion County Commission ers limited the right of way to ten feet from the middle of the pike over which the line will be built. A single track will be constructed temporarily, but the company expects in time to be able to purchase enough land of the farmers along the line to build an additional track. It is understood that the cars will enter the city over the Citizens' Street-railroad Company's lines. The contractors say they will not touch the work unless everything is legal and the company has a valid right of way through both countles. However, they do not anticipate any difficulty in this direction and talk encouragingly of the project. Said one of the members of the construction company last night: "We will build an electric line that will give much better satisfaction in long-distance traveling than the ordinary railroad. If we take this contract we will rush the work along and have the line ready for business in two months. It will require a great many men to do this, but we will bind ourselves to complete it by that time, barring unforseen accidents. After the road is built we will operate it for ten days and turn it over to the company in shipshape. We don't know what route is to be taken yet, but will ascertain every-

TOMATO CROP IS SHORT.

State Canners Think It Will Be Behind a Hulf Million Cases.

Thirty-five factories were represented at | the semi-annual meeting of the Indiana Canners' Association, held yesterday afternoon at the Grand Hotel. The officers of the association are: President, Frank Van-Camp, of Indianapolis: vice presi-Oliver Steel, of Spiceland; George J. Larrimore Dies Suddenly. secretary, O. Hubbell, of Indianapolis. The association met to talk over affairs concerning the yearly pack.

It was shown that the tomato crop is about sixty per cent. short of last year. This is on account of an overpack last year. Packers at the opening of this sea-son had large supplies on hand, and made light contracts with growers. Then the frost and the cut-worm played havoc with frost and the cut-worm played havoc with tomatoes and early corn. The latter product is reported twenty per cent. short of last year's crop. The canners say that the late corn crop will help them out.

Basing the growth of tomatoes on the reports that have come in from over the country, the association concluded yesterday that this year's pack will be nearly a half million cases short of that considered necessary for normal consumption. FAMOUS STALLION MAY RACE AGAIN AT THE FAIR GROUNDS.

Dr. J. B. Taylor, One of the Owners, in the City to Talk with Driving Club Officials.

Dr. J. B. Taylor, of San Antonio, Tex., one of the owners of Joe Patchen, the celebrated racing stallion, is in the city. Dr. Taylor was somewhat surprised and much pleased at the animal's performance at Janesville, Wis., Monday, when a mile was paced by him in 2:04%, which is the fastest mile gone in harness this year. One of the things which brings Dr. Taylor to the city is to see if some arrangement cannot be made for a match race at the fall meeting of the Driving Club. The officials of the club will be consulted this morning. Last evening Dr. Taylor said: "When Joe Patchen raced Robert J. here,

There is no use denying the fact that the bicycle has had a wonderful effect upon the horse interests.
